The Society expresses grateful thanks to all those who have assisted in this production with loans of furniture and other items or with plain hard work.

A number of our older audience members will no doubt know something about the celebrated and heart-rending story of Little Lord Fauntleroy. Some may remember the film success which introduced Freddy Bartholemew as the curly-haired, velvet-suited, lace-collared angel with his American mother and domineering father. The tears of the audience flowed freely throughout the world.

Our play, in which you meet again some of the main characters, is much more light hearted and written without malice to the late authoress of the original story. It is presented as an entertaining episode in the later life of Lord Fauntleroy, combined with some humorous illustrations of life and customs in the Victorian era.

We welcome two new acting members in this first play of the 1973/74 season. Casting has not been easy as we are still very short of participants especially men. - Are you interested? or do you know of anyone who may be? Please try to help. More numbers can mean larger casts and a greater variety of good plays.

Our rehearsals are held every Monday and Wednesday and anyone interested can drop in. They will be most welcome.
